
Activities

Teaching activities

For students of Charles University, CZEM provides following educational programs (in cooperation or on its own):

- Health Economics , a course for students of master degree program at Institute of Economic Studies , taught in English
- Participation in teaching of Public Health courses to pre-graduate students of Third Faculty of Medicine, mainly in areas of health systems funding, provider payment methods and comparison of health systems
- Elective course Roles and new competencies of physicians in modern health systems in the European Union, prepared for students of medical and other faculties of Charles University. The course was taught in the academic year 2013/2014.

In the area of lifelong education, CZEM offers following programs:

- Principles of management of health services, aimed at public servants working for regional governments
- Controlling of production of health services in hospitals . This course is prepared and taught in cooperation with Advance Hospital Analytics. It is intended for hospital employees responsible for planning, management and controlling of health services production and submission of claims to health insurers.

Research activities

CZEM participates in the following research projects:

- International project MUNROS , which evaluates impact of development of new health professions in terms of quality, efficiency and costs of public health systems in 9 European countries
- Assessment of costs of type 2 diabetes mellitus in the Czech Republic – participation in grant proposal submitted by the Institute of Economic Studies of the Charles University

Conferences

- 14th June 2017
Symposium Extra billing in the Czech healthcare (in Czech only) powered in cooperation with Centre for Medical Law, Faculty of Law
- 19-21 May 2016
Management of Chronic Diseases - Main Challenge for Today's Health Systems, <http://www.pragueihs.eu/en>
8th International Health Summit in Prague
- 14th November 2013
Teaching health economics and management in the 21st century
Download invitation to the conference \(in Czech\)